Gemellus was a great believer in manure as a fertilizer. In one letter he admonished his nephew to keep adding to the manure heap, and in another he gives these directions:

"Send the animals to carry manure at the vegetable ground (truck garden) at Psinaclis, and the manure carts, for Pasis is crying out that we must not allow t to be dissolved by the water; and let them fetch his hay."

That one had to watch sharp to keep from being "stuck" in a deal, still another of Gemellus' epistolary efforts make plain:

"Aunes, the donkey driver, has bought a rotten bundle of hay at 12 drachmæ, a little bundle and rotten hay, work every day. Up to to-day the whole of it decayed-no better than

Perhaps the town drunkard has exsted ever since there was a town and ntoxicants. At any rate, he was a staple character around Oxyrhynohus two thousand years ago, and his favorite method of getting money wherewith to secure the one thing his heart craved for most was to clip coins. Here is the etter of one town drunkard to a crony in his cups:

"Endæmon to Longinus, greeting: entreat you, sir, to hasten to me and bring, if you please, the crystal (instrument) and we can clip the cash. If you will, you will be able to strain me some good Mareotic wine, when you come, with the proceeds."

In all probability the letter was written in some grog shop of the day. The highway robber also plied his trade whenever he got a chance: "To Megalonymus, strategus (inspector) of the divisions of Themistes and Polemo in the Arsinoite nome (district), as we were returning from the village Once in awhile there was an owner of Theadelphia, about dawn we have as and assaulted us with many blows, "Didyme, also called Matrona, daugh- and wounded Pasion, and robbed us of pig and carried off Pasion's tunic. #### Depth of Ocean Cables

Pessimistic prophets sometimes sound sage and logical, but the unreasoning optimist who sees better things despite argument outstrips them.

In the days of Stephenson's early ex periments it was predicted that a speed of more than twelve miles an hour by rail would be impracticable, if for no other reason than that the human system would not withstand traveling at a higher rate of speed.

In the early days of steamboats it was declared that transatlantic steam navigation would be impossible, mainly because of the inability to provide room aboard ship for the coal that would be necessary for the voyage. The prophet had scarcely done speaking when the news arrived that a ship had just finished a trip across the Atlantic under steam.

So with transatlantic cables. Some promulgated the belief that they cou never be laid because the density of the water below a certain depth would be s great that the cable would not sink to the bottom of the ocean. All the wise folk regardless, however, the cable promptly descended to the ocean bed at a depth of 16,404 feet, and within the last year a cable was sunk in the Pacific ocean in the vicinity of the Lukin Island at a depth of 26,246 feet.

Many a mile she walked, from office to office, which, with a fluttering heart and overstrung nerves, she entered to offer manuscripts over which she had spent much time, always hoping she might find acceptance. Money was terribly needed by her. The result was ever the same. Each magazine or journal had its own staff of contributors; hundreds of stories were waiting for consideration. The supply was greater than could be exhausted for years. And such manuscripts as she was permitted to leave or which she sent by post, were not lost, or mislaid-invariably returned o her, until her spirit was well-nigh

A turn came in the tide of her affairs when they seemed most desperate. A tale retained by a magazine for over welve months at last saw the light of publication. Reviews spoke of its truth to nature, pathos and originality of plot. A second story was accepted by the same magazine and an editor who had returned her stories and essays unread requested her to send him some articles Those he had previously rejected were posted to him and paid for within a

CHAPTER V.

George Bostock was eager to hear Mrs. Dumbarton's account of the event. Not that he needed words of hers to confirm his belief in her innocence—of that none was more certain than he out he was impatient to hear how it ame to pass that she was found in a osition and under circumstances that onveyed an idea of guilt.

Veronica, likewise, longingly awaited this narrative, which she felt certain vould prove a complete vindication of er mother's innocence.

"When you had left last night," Mrs. Sumbarton said, turning toward the pubsher, who sat at a little distance, his grave, anxious face expressing interest and sympathy, "I took up the book which and arrived by the last post and began to read. Feeling hot and feverish, I kept the lower window open. All within was perfectly silent; no sound came from without and the peace seemed restful to "The book interested me and I felt no inclination to sleep," Mrs. Dumbarton continued, and then paused while a slight shudder passed through her frame, as if some distressing sight presented itself to her vision

"How long did you continue to read?" George Bostock asked.

"Probably for a couple of hours after you left. I know I was suddenly startled by hearing the garden gate flung violently back and sounds of footsteps rushing toward the house; but before I could real through the open window and stood within the room-a man's figure, whose stricken with madness or made desperate from pain. At this sight I screamed, then zed by terror, I remained speech ess and motionless.

I saw that the man before me was ny husband. Scarcely had I understood this when he came staggering toward me, but before he reached me he fell a cry for help and mercy on his lips. he did not move, I drew nearer to him, fascinated, fearful, expectant, until, overcoming my terror and the sense of repulsion that filled me, I stood beside him when for the first time I saw-I saw a knife had been thrust into his breast.

"As yet there was no sign of blood, no forewarning of death; my sense of dread was undefined. The sight of his white, haggard and distorted face appealed to me through all, and I had but one thought, to save him from danger, when, acting on impulse, I stretched out my hand and drew the knife from his breast. As I did blood gushed from the wound upon my hands, upon my dress, and he moaned as if stricken anew. Unable to grasp what had happened, I bent over him, to see his eyes grow glassy and his face become livid. Then I knew he was dead." "Of what happened afterward I was but dimly conscious," Olive Dumbarton continued. "As one sees a figure in a dream I saw my maid rush into the room and as suddenly disappear; then came Veronica, and finally the servant returned with a policeman. At sight of him a fresh sense of horror and heavy forebodings of ill fell upon my senses, and I remember no more. "Did you see no one else-no second figure pursuing him?" George Bostock asked, his anxiety plain to witness.

"And he mentioned no name-spoke no word that would lead you to know or suspect why he had been murdered? "The only words he spoke were those in which he asked for help and mercy.

"God grant that it may," she cried:

Copper is the Safest-the Most Profitable-the M Permanent Investment in the World Today

Copper is a Safe Investment

The uses of Copper are extending every year. The mand is far ahead of the supply. All the present roduction of Copper in the world cannot supply the emands of electricity alone. All scientists agree that we are just beginning to learn the uses of electricity. As these uses multiply, so will the demands for Copper increase. The price is steadily going up. In the ast few years it has risen from 11c to 19c a pound.

Copper is a Permanent Investment

No man can tell how long a good Copper mine will last, because no man has ever seen one exhausted. The Rio Tinto mines in Spain have been worked for over two thousand years, and last year they were the third largest producer in the world. The Mansfield mines in Germany have been worked for seven hundred years, and last year they were the sixth largest producer. Copper was discovered in this country in 1845, and in the Lake Superior district the levels are a mile below the lake, yet last year they produced more copper than ever before in their history. The famous Anaconda mine is steadily increasing its production. The United Verde in Arizona is turning out more and more Copper every year. No real Copper mine in this country has yet been exhausted.

Months of Suffering.

On Monday, August 27th, Mrs. Lucy J. Roberts died at her home eight miles east of Marion in the R. C. Love. Iron Hill vicinity. She had been a sufferer from consumption of the lungs for many weary months, but had patiently borne her afflictions until death relieved her. Mrs. Roberts was Mrs. Lucy Jane Baker before her marriage to Geo. F. Roberts, which took place June 5, 1881. She professed religion in the fall of 1873, and joined the Cumberland Preabyterian church at Sugur Grove, blowing of whistles, ringing of bells December 7th of that year. ## LOW RATES FOR THE STATE FAIR

Railroads Fix One Fare For the Round Trip.

MANY VARIED ATTRACTIONS

Provided For State Fair Week, Sept. 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22.

TROTTERS AND RUNNERS WILL RACE EACH DAY

Burpassing Exhibition of Horseflesh, Cattle, Sheep and Swine-Woman's Department a Joy to Housewives. Twenty-five Thousand Dollars is Premiums and Purses.

Railroad rates for the State Fair have been fixed at one fare plus 25 cents for the round trip from all points in Kentucky and in Southern Indiana. With nine railroads running into the city of Louisville, where the Fair will be held during the week of September 17-22, one hundred passenger trains daily will carry thousands to the metropolis of Kentucky. In addition many special trains will be run in order to accommodate those who wish to visit the Fair for a single day only. There is no part of the state of not be reached in a reasonable time.'

A CLYDESDALE

the Henderson and Illinois Central railroads will furnish ample accommodations, and in the southern part the L & N. will bring thousands, while from the central and eastern sections the C. & O., Southern and L. & N. will bring the crowds.

Once in Louisville, ample amusement will be provided to keep every visitor well entertained and amused during his stay, whether it be for a day or during the entire week. Of course the Fair itself will be the center of interest, and there so many free attractions have been arranged for that the whole time can be spent enjoyably and profitably without seeking other recreation. Each of the men having the different departments in hand is thoroughly qualified by long years of training and experience to arrange the exhibits in his charge in the most attractive and approved

Many Things to Please.

The Fair proper, that is, the exhibits of horses, cattle and other live stock, the products of farm and field, the garden and flower beds, mechanical department and that devoted to woman's handiwork, will be both interesting and of great educational value. This is not even half of the pleasure that has been provided for those who attend the State Fair. Those who love a contest, and how many Kentuckians are there who do not, between the clean-limbed and high-spirited trotting horses and thoroughbreds, will find four races on the program each day. There will be either a trotting or pacing race, best three heats in five, and three running races. For over a month the track has been in course of preparation for the trotting races. Thousands of gallons of water have been poured on it daily, and after each wetting it has been rolled and packed so that the trotters will find firm and restlient surface under their shoes rather than the deep and sandy soil, which is better suited to thoroughbreds. The hard surface will not be of disadvantage to the owners, inasmuch as the races immediately before the Fair will be at Douglas Park, a track that was built for trotting purposes, and which is hill Fox, the champion Jersey bull of considerably harder than the average | England. running track, Among the races on the program is one for trotters of the 2:10 class and a free-for-all for pacers, which will be decided on Friday. In the thoroughbred division there will steeple chases, while every day there would be readily accepted by both will be at least one race of a mile or over. As there will be no other racing in the west during the Fair, the best horses in training and the highest class jockeys in the west will take part in the racing at the State Fair. Purses for the trotting races will be $600 each, a considerably larger amount than is ordinarily offered at Varied Attractions.

Visitors in the city during the week can emjoy the many varied attractions at night. They can go to the Fair and enjoy a concert by one of the most famous musical organizations in the United States. They can go over the grounds and take in the carnival shows or can sit in the Palm Garden and enjoy the music while they chat over pleasures of the day with their friends and renew their acquaintance with Kentuckians from other parts of the state. The social feature of the Fair will undoubtedly prove one of its most attractive points, and as the years go on the State Fair will become more and more a meeting ground for Kentuckians from all sections of the commonwealth, where Kentucky from which Louisville can they can see what the other parts of the state are doing and exchange From the western part of the state ideas of mutual benefit. The State Fair is the place to meet your friends and enjoy a few days' outing. It comes at a season of the year when the farmer and stock raiser can best afford to leave their homes for a few days, and thousands will take advantage of the low rates in order to be

When the exhibits of horeflesh, cattle and swine in the morning and the races in the afternoon have been sufficient for the day at the Fair, the visitors can find other forms of recreation and amusement in the five theaters in Louisville or at any one of the several parks about the city. At Macauley's theater they can find highclass drama; at the Masonic, enjoy a musical comedy; at the Avenue, a thrilling melodrama, or at the Hopkins, refined vaudeville.

Classes Well Filled.

Practically every class for which prize money has been offered has been well filled, and the leading stock raisers of the state will be there to show their horses, their cattle, their sheep and their hogs. The exhibits of horseflesh will undoubtedly surpass anything ever before seen at the State Fair in Kentucky, and will excel even those of the well-established State

Fairs of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. The fact that only one week intervenes between the Fair and the Louisville Horse Show has added many entries in the horse division. The classes for the high steppers, roadsters and both three and five-gaited saddle horses have many entries that will be shown at the Louisville Horse Show. The light harness and plantation saddler classes, which are exhibifkewise been well filled.

In many of the saddle rings as many as twenty entries have been received. This is especially true of the five-gaited saddlers, and many other entries are expected before ribbons are tied. In the beef cattle division entries will come from Missouri, Ohio and Indiana to compete with Kentucky stock raisers, and it is predicted that the Shorthorn and other beef catile classes will surprise even those who have been regular attendants at fairs. #### Beautiful Legend.

There is an old legend that runs in this wise: At the creation's dawn an angel came down to earth and before retuning looked around for something to carry back to heaven. There were three things that attracted the attention of he white-winged messenger a bouquet of sweet flowers that are soon sound and well. A. R. Bass had been gathered from one of the of Morgantown. Ind., had to get up earth's fair and blooming gardens, ten or twelves times in the night and the smile of a baby that had been er's love. These three the angel carried away, but when they reached the pearly gates of paradise the flowers had withered-the baby's smile had vanished. Only a mother's love remained the same, and being found as pure and eternal as the waters that flowed by God's throne, all the angels that ranged about exclaimed in unison: "There is nothing on earth pure enough for heaven out a mouner's love." This was a tribute containing a sublime thought. And through all the ages it has been human experience that the angels referred to in that fai-away legend, were not over-extravagant in the message that they passed out through the opened windows of the "many mansions" along the banks of the "River of God."-Henderson Gleaner.

How careless people get about writing and keeping up with their friends and those they love is shown by Mr. Cruce's letter. In it he inquires about his sister Lucy's health, she having been dead four years and was Caleb Stone's wife and mother of councilman G. W. Stone who received

Success Bepends an Optimism and Hustling

> By WILLIAM CRERAND. Successful Publisher Who as a Boy Kicked a Gordon Press.

EOPLE go out of their way to help a successful man, and no man who has all his faculties has any excuse for being

The lack of enthusiasm on the part of any individual is one of the first signs of the "going-back-to-sit-down" feeling, and a sour face on a man who ought to be hustling when she was thirteen years of age is as discouraging as a "to let" sign.

The spirit of the times is all optimism despite the muck rakers. There's money and success in the air and every man can get some of it if he will go out after it.

Every one wants to feel that he is in the company of people who are doing something, and unless a man gives some evidence that he house with frescoes. Indeed, Frago is making good the crowd don't want to sit with him. They will stand for disappointments that have made a man temporarily embarrassed so long as he shows a disposition to keep moving and doesn't stop to love with his patron. Guimard had a

GUIMARD, THE SPIDER.

The Great Dancer of the Great Days of the Ballet.

The elder Vestris, who flourished in the middle of the eighteenth century, called himself the "god of dancing" and declared in all sincerity and without rebuke that his century had produced but three supreme men-himself, Frederick the Great and Voltaire. On one occasion when reproving his son Augustus for refusing to dance before the king of Sweden at the request of the king of France he said that he would not tolerate any misunderstanding between the houses of Vestris and Bourbon, which had lived hitherto upon the most friendly terms.

Madeleine Guimard made her debut and for nearly thirty years kept all Paris worshiping at her feet. MARY ANN LUCAS.

Mary Ann Lucas, daughter of A. L. and Ella M. Lucas, was born Aug. 25th, 1898 and died July 29th, 1906. She was afflicted for nearly a year and perfectly helpless for six months. Mary was naturally a sweet spirited child and bore her afflictions with great patience and fortitude. No doubt she was sustained by the grace of God.

She loved the church and took an interest in giving of her little means for the support of the preachers. Though so young, her heart seemed to be in the work of the church. One day when I had gone to see her she asked me to have prayers as one of
